AHMAD YACOUT has a BA in History and Political Science. He is a member of Professor Peter Stamatov’s research team at NYUAD and is also a junior consultant specialized in Exhibition Planning and Scientific Content Development at Avesta Group, currently working on the Al Khozam Palace - King Abdulaziz Museum in Jeddah and other major museums projects in the region.

Over the years, he has conducted research on voter theory, political economy and historical sociology with the professors in NYUAD and UCLA.

Ahmad also helped organize the “Regional Intercountry Meeting on The Implementation Of Pictorial Graphic Health Warnings And Plain Packaging On Tobacco Products” in 2016 while working with the World Health Organization’s regional office in Cairo, Egypt.

Ahmad’s devotion to classical and modern Arab and Islamic history motivates him to reconcile the gap between the past and the Arab world’s trials with modernity. His latest project focused on North African Islamic movements in the 11th century and notions of theological and political centers and periphery in the Arab World
